

– Call for tenders

AL2000 are placed in small shops and are managed by the shop owners. Physically, an AL2000 is a box that can only be opened by technicians from CyberVideo. It has a touch screen in front of the user, a slot under the screen to deliver and return DVDs and a slot for credit cards on the left of the screen.

The interface presents all the movies available in the AL2000 and a more extensive list of movies available at CyberVideo. A client can rent a DVD with a credit card or with a subscriber card.

A subscription allows maintaining a rented movies history that can be consulted. A subscription also allows expressing the desire to see a given movie, available at CyberVideo but not in the AL2000.

Call for tenders

AL2000 are placed in small shops and are managed by the shop owners. Physically, an AL2000 is a box that can only be opened by technicians from CyberVideo. It has a touch screen in front of the user, a slot under the screen to deliver and return DVDs and a slot for credit cards on the left of the screen.

The interface presents all the movies available in the AL2000 and a more extensive list of movies available at CyberVideo. A client can rent a DVD with a credit card or with a subscriber card.

A subscription allows maintaining a rented movies history that can be consulted. A subscription also allows expressing the desire to see a given movie, available at CyberVideo but not in the AL2000.

Call for tenders

AL2000 are placed in small shops and are managed by the shop owners. Physically, an AL2000 is a box that can only be opened by technicians from CyberVideo. It has a touch screen in front of the user, a slot under the screen to deliver and return DVDs and a slot for credit cards on the left of the screen.

The interface presents all the movies available in the AL2000 and a more extensive list of movies available at CyberVideo. A client can rent a DVD with a credit card or with a subscriber card.

A subscription allows maintaining a rented movies history that can be consulted. A subscription also allows expressing the desire to see a given movie, available at CyberVideo but not in the AL2000.

Call for tenders

AL2000 are placed in small shops and are managed by the shop owners. Physically, an AL2000 is a box that can only be opened by technicians from CyberVideo. It has a touch screen in front of the user, a slot under the screen to deliver and return DVDs and a slot for credit cards on the left of the screen.

The interface presents all the movies available in the AL2000 and a more extensive list of movies available at CyberVideo. A client can rent a DVD with a credit card or with a subscriber card.

A subscription allows maintaining a rented movies history that can be consulted. A subscription also allows expressing the desire to see a given movie, available at CyberVideo but not in the AL2000.